

BJ

aka BlackJack

Are you searching for a furry friend and companion that is loyal, attentive, dances with joy every morning he sees you , very routine oriented, excellent car rider, enjoys walks, or just meandering in the yard with you ? Are you seeking a furry friend that enjoys relaxing in your companionship inside or outside and helping you feel safe by protecting you and your residence? BJ could be the BOY for YOU ! We believe BJ is a German shep and Border collie mix. This handsome dude is neutered, 52lbs, will be 6yrs in MAY, , fully vaccinated, heartworm negative, flea/tick free, house trained and crate trained.

BJ is very smart with a loving and attentive demeanor, and his nature is to protect what he loves: his home, his yard, his caretakers. He seems to trust women more easily than men. His JOY and CONTENTMENT comes from being with his human companion. He loves chewing on his bonebones, playing with his stuffed unicorn, keeping squirrels from his yard, resting in his crate OR beside his caretaker, and he has great recall when his "favorite cookie and/or praise" is given to him. This boy thrives on training and special treats that go with it.

A fenced yard is required in order that BJ can enjoy the freedom of being outside "unchained"(since he was chained most of his life before he came to rescue). He has met other dogs on leash and off leash and shown little interest. BJ would do best with a family of adults only or with an older female dog that displays little energy; sometimes he will show jealousy.

BJ encountered trauma to his back end (we think 3 or 4 yrs ago -no recorded history came with BJ when he entered our rescue group). Xrays indicate he has a partially shattered pelvis and displaced hip; he shows no disability while walking, playing, sleeping or chasing squirrels. Surgery is not a necessity or requirement. Joint supplements, Proin, anti-inflammatory/pain mgmt medication are lifelong requirement; for these reasons ONLY, BJ might be considered a "special needs" dog.
